Cocoa Camp 2013
Application

Cocoa Camp is a week-long training session for college students learning to develop on the iOS platform, with the week culminating in an iOS student app showcase. Cocoa Camp 2013 will take place from August 12–16, 2013.

To be eligible, you must be enrolled full-time through Fall 2013 at a college or university where you're pursuing a bachelor's or master's degree.

To apply for Cocoa Camp, send the following items in a zip file to cocoacamp@apple.com on or before Friday, April 5, 2013:

· A PDF version of your resume (saved as "FirstName LastName.pdf") that includes your projected date of graduation

· A statement of intent (as a PDF file and not to exceed one paragraph) explaining why you want to attend Cocoa Camp and how you intend to use Cocoa in the future

· A coding sample

Applicants will be notified on or before April 26, 2013 if they have been selected for Cocoa Camp.

Coding Sample Details

Please write an Objective-C app that:

· Runs on an iOS device or in Simulator

· Converts a user-entered number from one currency to another

· Does not use third-party source code (for example, code found on github)

Some other things you may consider implementing:

· Multiple conversions (from one currency into multiple)

· Images (such as a picture of the currency or a country flag)

· Formatted values to account for currency symbols, positive and negative amounts, and so on

· Real-time currency conversion rates

· Related Wikipedia content

· Unit tests

Your coding sample will be judged on criteria such as app architecture, design, maintainability, and use of modern technologies.